Some sacrifices

Eg 1	♠K109 ♥Q1075 ♦Q8642 ♣3	NS Game Dlr South	West 2♣ 5♣ Pass	North - 2♥ Pass Pass	East - 3♣ Pass Pass	South 1♥ 4♥ Double

West does not expect to make 5♣! He thinks “4♥ will probably make. I cannot take many club tricks in defence now that partner has raised me.

They have bid and raised hearts, so partner is short in that suit and I can ruff hearts in his hand. I am short in spades and diamonds, so 5♣ will not go many down.

Two down is –300, far less than –620.

I will lose less by bidding 5♣ than by defending against 4♥”. West is quite right: he loses just 300 points in 5♣ doubled. And there is the possibility of a bigger gain: if South thinks he is being pushed around and bids 5♥ he will go down, and East-West will get a plus score.

Eg 2	♠QJ62 ♥K854 ♦93 ♣A83	NS Game Dlr South	West - 2♦ Pass Pass	North - 3♠ Pass Double	East - Pass 5♦ All Pass	South 1♠ 4♠ Pass

Here East thinks it unlikely that the vulnerable 4♠ contract will go down, and he hopes to lose no more than 500 points in 5♦. Indeed, 5♦ did go three down, so EW lost 500 instead of 620.

(But perhaps if East had bid 5♦ one round earlier he might push North-South into 5♠ and actually make a plus score!)

Advance sacrifices

This is favourable vulnerability.

East has 7 hearts and very few HCP which suggests opponents can surely make 6♠, perhaps even 7♠. A high-level heart contract cannot go many down when you have 12 trump between the hands. It is a good tactic to bid 5♥, or even 6♥ with this West hand, before opponents can investigate their best fit. If you remove their bidding room they must guess what to do – and sometimes they will guess wrong.

♠K10963	<table border="1"> <tr><td>N</td></tr> <tr><td>W E</td></tr> <tr><td>S</td></tr> </table>	N	W E	S	Love All

♣965

West	North	East	South

At any vulnerability this hand should leap 4♠, not because you expect to make the contract but because we are confident that opponents can make theirs – probably 4♥

You are West, and you must not “sacrifice” in 5♣. You have a balanced distribution - 5♣ might go many down. You are far from sure that 4♠ will make. Your strength in spades makes their game dubious at best. East’s hand looks much more like a sacrifice, and West should deter partner from sacrificing by making a penalty double.

If your side were to sacrifice it would be called a “phantom sacrifice” – a sacrifice against a game that is not making. Not a good idea!
