A note from our SBU President

I am very much looking forward to attending this event and proud to have the opportunity to support a major congress as President. I hope you will all join me in celebrating a return of tournament bridge to Scotland. I introduce Andrew McIntosh, our Congress Ambassador. After establishing himself as a Scottish International as a teen, Andrew went on to pursue a full-time career as a bridge professional. He has agreed to support this congress bringing 30 years of experience of developing the game, a collection of English caps, Gold Cups and international accomplishments. We hope with his support we can deliver a Congress that attracts players from around the world.

A note from our Congress Ambassador

Andrew Robson described Peebles and the SBU Congress in the Times as “the Murrayfield of Bridge”, a sentiment I share. Scotland has a long history of sharing its intellectual capital with the world and if we combine our love of the game with our Scottish history and our warm and welcoming culture, we can offer the Bridge world a unique tournament experience
